

20 March 2024

Organising for Power: Core Fundamentals - global online course starts 7 May

Learn the organising skills to fight and win - register by 23 April to join a PCS team.

Calling PCS organisers and PCS activists who organise. Do you want to:

- build a high-density, high-participation union structure in your workplace/employer?
- persuade 'hard to reach' PCS members to take strike and other collective action, when required?
- strengthen you and your colleagues' bargaining power as we head into the next phase of the national PCS campaign?

If yes, do you have 4 hours per week to participate in this intensive, six-week global online training course?

The course takes place on six consecutive Tuesdays from 7 May - 11 June, 5pm-7.30pm, on Zoom. You will also be required to meet weekly with your small, friendly PCS group to practice your skills, and to discuss how these can be used to tackle the specific organising challenges in your employer.

Since 2019, Organizing for Power (O4P)'s Core Fundamentals course has trained over 35,000 union reps and other activists worldwide in 'core' organising methods. These activists have used the knowledge and techniques to build their unions, recruit new members and win major victories.

Watch a short video to hear global activists explain the impact of O4P training.

Find out more information and how to register. You will then be allocated to one of the PCS groups taking part.